

LAKLAVE

Laklave is an analogue democratic multiplayer game with crowd-sourced rules added and removed on-the-fly. And it involves drinking. Make sure that you have a decent stockpile of drinks and a handful of dice.

LAKLAVE BASICS

1. Decide who starts the game by drawing lots.
2. The starting player gets to introduce the first rule. From this starting point every player will have to add a new rule when he/she receives the dice.
3. The rules that players introduce can be anything accepted by the majority. If a rule is deemed stupid, not fun or out of line by the majority of players it is dropped, and the player has to come up with a new one.
4. All rules must be followed in the sequence they were introduced.
5. When a player fails any rule in the sequence of rules, a new round starts with the failing player introducing the first rule of the new round.
6. When a player fails a rule he/she is awarded a penalty object – a Laklave – and must make a toast (and optionally empty his glass) before starting the new round.
7. A Laklave can be any object present on the table or in the room where the game takes place. The players decide in plenum what Laklave a failing player should be awarded.
8. When ever a player has been awarded e.g. five Laklaves he/she is out of the game.
9. The game continues until only one player is left. Last man/woman standing wins.

LAKLAVE PLAY-THROUGH

A play-through could take place like this:

1. Thor introduces the first rule “I must roll 12 or more” and rolls the dice. He rolls 14 so he abides the rule he introduced.
2. The dice are passed on to Britt who repeats Thor’s rule and adds “You must roll the dice with your right hand while holding your left hand on the back!” She rolls 18 with her right hand while holding the left on her back.
3. Thomas is next in line. He adds a new rule – “You must say: Long live Kylie Minogue! when rolling the dice!” He rolls the dice with his right hand while holding the left on his back while saying “Long live Kylie Minogue!” and states that he must roll 12 or more. He rolls 16 and and passes the dice on to Hans-Henrik who is getting a bit drunk at this point.
4. Hans-Henrik – who is left-handed – rolls 21 while shouting “Long live Kylie Minogue!” Only he rolled the dice with his left hand and the rest of the table cheers and taunts him. As a penalty he is awarded a pepper grind (a Laklave) and he must make a toast.
5. The game is reset, and Hans-Henrik gets to start it all over again by making the first rule of the new round.

Cheers!
